

Granting of Rights of Use

Name and address of the corresponding author

Surname: _____ First name: _____

Street: _____ Country, post code, place: _____

Telephone (daytime): _____ Email: _____

Name of author(s): _____

Contribution (German and English title) and manuscript number: _____

Dear author,

We would like to ask you to read through and sign this agreement. Only then will the publisher be able to publish your article in both printed and electronic form.

Note: This granting of rights of use will only become valid when the manuscript has successfully run through the appraisal process and has been accepted for publication.

I. Legal clearance

1. The author affirms that the services that he has rendered in connection with the further planning, preparation, realisation and support of the work, as well as the third-party text and/or image templates obtained by the author himself do not infringe third-party rights, he is solely authorised to dispose of any rights of use under copyright law that have arisen in respect of the services rendered or that exist in respect of the aforementioned text and/or image templates, and he has hitherto neither wholly nor partly made any disposition conflicting with this granting of rights.
2. If the author is, for legal reasons, prevented from making any of the affirmations stated in Section 1 above, or if he becomes doubtful about his authority to make these affirmations, he shall inform the publisher without delay as soon as he has become aware of the actual or supposed legal obstacle.

II. Granting of Rights/Title Right/Open Access

1. For the duration of the statutory legal protection, including any extensions of the periods of protection, the author hereby grants the publisher, without limitation as regards time, territory or subject-matter, the exclusive right to use the contribution (including any photographs, graphics, etc.). The publisher may use the contribution at home and abroad, in physical and non-physical form (online and offline) as well as for advertising purposes. This shall particularly apply to printing, preprinting, reprinting, transmission of any kind, selling, distribution, recording of the work on image and/or audio carriers, translation into other languages, saving and processing in electronic systems (telecommunication and data services, e.g. websites, online services, including social media, e-books, mobile services and applications as well as databases and electronic carrier media), document delivery services or any other use of the contribution as a whole or in part in any electronic and/or printed versions, as well as use and exploitation by means of any other forms of reproduction that are currently known or only become known at a future time, regardless of the transmission and carrier technology.

BERLINER UND MÜNCHENER TIERÄRZTLICHE WOCHENSCHRIFT

Deutsche Tierärztliche Wochenschrift

The publisher shall be entitled to also wholly or partly grant or transfer the rights of use to third parties, for payment or without payment, and to edit and rearrange the work in its entirety in any way, including electronically/digitally, also by shortening (e.g. producing abstracts), dividing or adding to the work or linking the work with interactive elements, and also by way of further development, as well as to exploit these edited and rearranged versions in all forms of use covered by the contract.

2. If the publisher is entitled to edit the work, or have the work edited, it shall refrain from impairing the work in any way that is likely to jeopardise the author's intellectual and personal rights in the work.
3. Insofar as the author participates in the open access model of the publishing company Schlütersche Fachmedien GmbH with the "Berliner und Münchener Tierärztlichen Wochenschrift", the publisher hereby grants the author the ordinary right to make its article accessible, quoting the original publication / source and date, under the Creative Commons license CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 (<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/deed.en>) via its own homepage, an institutional server and/or a suitable academic repository.

III. Exclusion of liability, retention period

1. The author acknowledges that the publisher shall not accept any liability whatsoever for any damages incurred in the event of loss of the manuscript or parts thereof. This shall also apply if such damages are incurred in the course of electronic data transfer, and the publisher is not at fault for such damages or loss.
2. The author shall retain a complete copy of the manuscript in his files.
3. The manuscript usually shall be destroyed three months after publication. Only expressly marked unique copies shall be returned on request. However, the publisher shall accept no liability.
4. Insofar as the author is at fault for deficiencies in the magazine article published/made available for online retrieval by third parties (e.g. errors in terms of content, meaning or printing or errors that have arisen in the course of recording in machine-readable form, electronic storage or distribution by remote data transmission), he shall indemnify the publisher against warranty and damage claims that third parties could assert against the publisher.

IV. Applicable law, reservations of rights

1. Amendments and supplements to the contract must be in writing. No verbal side agreements have been made.
2. If any individual provisions in this contract are void or ineffective, this shall not affect the validity of the remaining provisions. The contracting Parties shall replace the deficient provision with a provision whose economic and legal meaning reflects the deficient provision as closely as possible.
3. The laws of the Federal Republic of Germany, in particular the Bürgerliche Gesetzbuch [German Civil Code], the Urheberrechtsgesetz [Copyright Act] and the Verlagsgesetz [Publishing Act], shall additionally apply.
4. For both Parties, the place where the publisher is situated (Hanover) is the place of performance of the contract and the place of jurisdiction.

Location, Date

Hannover

Signature author

Schlütersche Fachmedien GmbH